collection of fourteen essays five of them new to the second edition that presents a variety of perspectives on Robinson Crusoe by Virginia Woolf, Ian Watt, Eric Berne, Maximillian E. Novak, Frank Budgen, James Joyce, George A. Starr, J. Paul Hunter, James Sutherland, John J. Richetti, Leopold Damrosch Jr., John Bender, Michael McKeon, and Carol Houlihan Flynn. A chronology of Defoe's life and work and an updated selected bibliography are also included.

It is January 1719 and Daniel Defoe, almost sixty, sits at a table writing. He is troubled with gout and debt but for now is preoccupied with a younger man on a barren shore: Robinson Crusoe, for which he will principally be remembered. Several miles south, an old man, Robert Knox, is bent over a heavy volume, his historical relation, his account of being held captive on Ceylon, published forty years ago after he escaped and returned to England. It has long been out of print but a copy perhaps sits on the desk of Daniel Defoe as he writes: where did Crusoe come from and what is the secret of his endurance? Crusoe explores the intertwined lives of two real men, Daniel Defoe and Robert Knox, and the character and book that emerged from their peculiar conjunction. It is the biography of a book and its hero, the story of Defoe, the man who wrote Robinson Crusoe, and of Robert Knox, the man who was Crusoe.

Symbolic Landscapes presents a definitive collection of landscape place studies that explores symbolic cultural levels of geographical meanings. Essays written by philosophers, geographers, architects, social scientists, art historians, and literati bring specific modes of expertise and perspectives to this transdisciplinary and interdisciplinary study of the symbolic level of human existential spatiality, placing emphasis on the pre-cognitive genesis of symbolic meaning as well as embodied experiential lived geography. The volume offers a fresh quasi-phenomenological approach. The editors articulate the epistemological doctrine that perception and imagination form a continuum in which both are always implicated as complements. This approach makes a case for the interrelation of the geography of perception and the geography of imagination, which means that human cultural geography offers only an abstraction. If indeed an aesthetic geography is constituted merely as a sub-field, human cultural geography can only approach spatial reality through recognizing the intimate interrelative dialectic between the imaginative and perceptual meanings of our landscapes. Place worlds, this volume reinvigorates the importance of the topic of symbolism in human cultural geography. Landscape Studies, philosophy of place, architecture and planning, and will stand among the classics in the field.

In the past twenty years, our understanding of the novel's emergence in eighteenth-century Britain has drastically changed. Drawing on new research in social and political history, the twelve contributors to this companion challenge and refine the traditional view of the novel's origins and purposes in various ways. Each seeks to show that the novel is not defined primarily by its realism of representation but by the new ideological and cultural functions it serves in the emerging modern world of print culture. Sentimental and gothic fiction, and fiction by women, are discussed alongside detailed readings of work by Defoe, Swift, Richardson, Henry Fielding, Sterne, smollett and burney this multifaceted picture of the novel in its formative decades provides a comprehensive and indispensable guide for students of the eighteenth century british novel and its place within the culture of its time

This study examines different conceptions of time in Daniel Defoe's 1660-1731 novels. The temporal aspects of the novels are surveyed taking into account the historical situation of the novel as a genre and contemporary conceptions of time. The modernisation process of the western world serves as a wider context of the study as present research indicates that Defoe's novels exemplify a multilayered shift from pre-modern western conceptions of time to those of the modern age. The author also explores gendered time and economic and cultural values of time in Defoe's novels. The book contributes a fresh analysis of Defoe's novels and demonstrates the crucial relation between historical cultural conceptions of time and the historically changing genre of the novel.

Essential for academic libraries, this series is an authoritative international resource for complete critical coverage of the careers and works of the greatest writers and thinkers of the late Middle Ages, the Renaissance, and the Restoration era. Author portraits and illustrations, facsimile manuscript pages, and pictures related to authors' lives are included. This is volume 42 of the series. Approx.
